Thursday, June 10 - St. Margaret, Queen, Widow, III Class, White

On the throne Margaret of Scotland gave an example of a mortified life and great charity in the service of the people under her rule. While inspiring her husband towards conversion, she brought up eight children with such piety that several of them led a life of high perfection. She was called the mother of orphans and the treasurer of the poor. She died June 16, 1093.

Confession 9:00-10:00a

Low Mass 12:15p Private

Confession 12:15-1:15p

Friday, June 11- Sacred Heart of Jesus, I Class, White

In the sixteenth century Protestantism, and in the seventeenth Jansenism, attempted to distort one of the essential truths of Christianity, namely, the love of God for all men. The liturgy, which is the living expression of the Faith of the Church, countered these attempts by the institution of the feast of the Sacred Heart which proclaims and exalts the universal and infinite love of our Savior. The feast day falls on the Friday after the traditional octave of Corpus Christi; after having celebrated the mystery of the Holy Eucharist for eight days, the Church now honors the Sacred Heart, the incarnation through our Lord's Sacred Humanity of the very love of God.
